Civil Disobedience

Remember, all these wars of aggression against the people, this police state oppression we live in, it all hinges on one single thing: our co-operation. It's not the tyrant at the top of the pyramid who has the final say like most are conditioned to believe. The real question is not who issued the immoral order; the real question is why did you obey it? Did you obey it because you saw a shiny badge, uniform, or an official looking seal? Did you think that those symbols of authority removed your responsibility to discern? Or is it because those around you complied quietly and you didn't want to stand out? Did you think that since you were told that you were not in charge it was someone else's responsibility to ask these questions?

Truth of the matter is that no-one really stands above you. In 300 years we are all dust and bones and the queen and the pawn both end up in the same box. There are no bonus points in the afterlife for being a good little slave. There is no retroactive compensation for accepting a life of indentured servitude. And there is no honor in bowing down to these criminals who claim to be your rulers. Until you realize that, until humanity gets up off its knees and looks them in the eye and says, "No, I will not obey. No, I will not comply." Until you take your power back without asking for permission there will be no justice.

There will be no peace.

This is the story of your enslavement!

This is the story of your enslavement, how it came to be and how you can finally be free

Like all animals, human beings want to dominate and exploit the resources around them. At first we mostly hunted and fished and ate off the land, but then something magical and terrible happened to our minds. We became alone among the animals, afraid of Death and of future loss. And this was the start of a great tragedy and an even greater possibility. You see, when we become afraid of death of injury and imprisonment we become Controllable.

And so valuable in a way that no other resource could ever be. The greatest resource for any human being to control is not natural resources or tools or animals or land but other Human Beings. You can frighten an animal, because animals are afraid of pain in the moment. But you cannot frighten an animal with a loss of liberty with torture or imprisonment in the future because animals have very little sense of 'tomorrow'. You cannot threaten a cow with torture, or a sheep with death.

You cannot swing a sword at a tree and scream at it to produce more fruit or hold a burning torch to a field and demand more wheat. You cannot get more eggs by threatening a hen but you can get a man to give you his eggs by threatening him. This 'Human Farming' has been the most profitable and destructive occupation throughout history and it is now reaching its destructive climax. Human society cannot be rationally understood until it is seen for what it is a series of Farms where Human Farmers own HUMAN Livestock.

Some people get confused because governments provide healthcare and water and education and roads and thus imagine that there is some 'benevolence' at work. Nothing could be further from the reality. Farmers provide 'Healthcare' and 'Irrigation' and training to their 'Livestock'. Some people get confused because we are allowed certain liberties, and thus imagine that our Governments 'protect' our freedoms. But farmers plant their crops a certain distance apart to increase their yields and will allow certain animals larger 'Stalls' or 'Fields'

If it means they will produce more meat and milk in your country your 'Tax Farm' your farmer grants you certain freedoms - not because he cares about your liberties but because he wants to increase his profits.

Are you beginning to see the nature of the cage you were born into?

There have been 4 major phases of Human Farming. The first phase, in ancient Egypt, was direct and brutal human compulsion. Human bodies were controlled but the creative productivity of the human mind remained beyond the reach of the whip, and the brand, and the shackles.

Slaves remained woefully underproductive and required enormous resources to control. The second phase was the 'Roman model' wherein slaves were granted some capacity for freedom, ingenuity and creativity which raised their productivity. This increased the wealth of Rome and thus the tax income of the Roman Government and with this additional wealth, Rome became an Empire, destroying the economic freedoms that fed its power and collapsed.

I'm sure that this does not seem entirely unfamiliar. After the collapse of Rome, the feudal model introduced the concept of 'livestock ownership' and taxation. Instead of being directly owned, peasants farmed land that they could retain as long as they paid off the local Warlords. This model eventually broke down due to the continual subdivision of productive land and was destroyed during the Enclosure Movement, when land was consolidated and hundreds of thousands of peasants were kicked off their ancestral lands because new farming techniques made larger farms more productive with fewer people. The increased productivity of the Later Middle Ages created the excess food required for the expansion of towns and cities. Which in turn gave rise to the modern Democratic Model of Human Ownership.

As displaced peasants flooded into the cities, a huge stock of cheap human capital became available to the rising industrialists and the ruling class of Human Farmers quickly realized that they could make more money by letting their 'Livestock' choose their own occupations. Under the Democratic Model, direct slave ownership has been replaced by the 'Mafia' Model. The Mafia rarely owns businesses directly but rather, sends thugs around once a month to steal from the business owners.

You are now allowed to choose your own occupation which raises your productivity and thus, the taxes you can pay to your masters.

Value this time in your life, kids "because this is the time in your life when you still have your choices" it goes by so fast! "When you're a teenager, you think you can do anything and you do! Your 20's are a blur 30's, you raise your family, you make a little money and you think to yourself what happened to my 20's? 40's you grow a little pot belly, you grow another chin! The music starts to get too loud, one of your old girlfriends from high school becomes a grandmother, 50's you'll have a minor surgery you'll call it a procedure but it's surgery 60's you'll have a major surgery, the music is STILL loud but it doesn't matter" because you can't hear it anyway, 70's You and the wife retire to Fort Lauderdale you start eating dinner at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. "You have lunch around 10, breakfast the night before!" Then spend most of your time wandering around malls looking for the ultimate soft yogurt muttering "How come the kids don't call? In your 80's you'll have a major stroke, and you end up battling to some Jamaican nurse who your wife can't stand, but who you call 'Mama.

"Any questions?

Your few freedoms are preserved because they are profitable to your owners. The great challenge of the Democratic Model is that increases in wealth and freedom threaten the 'Farmers!' The ruling classes initially profit from a relatively 'free' market in capital and labor, but as their livestock become more used to their freedoms and growing wealth they begin to question why they need 'Rulers' at all. Ah well. Nobody ever said that Human Farming was easy! Keeping the Tax Livestock securely in the compounds of the Ruling Classes is a three phase process.

The first is to indoctrinate the young through government "Education". As the wealth of democratic countries grew, government's schools were universally inflicted in order to control the thoughts - and souls of the Livestock. The second phase is to turn citizens against each other through the creation of 'Dependent Livestock' it is very difficult to rule human beings directly through force and where it can be achieved, it remains cripplingly underproductive as can be seen in North Korea.

Human Beings do not breed well or produce efficiently in direct captivity. Ah, but if Human Beings believe that they are 'free', then they will produce much more for their 'Farmers'. The best way to maintain this 'illusion' of freedom is to put some of the Livestock on the payroll of the Farmer. Those 'Cows' that become dependent on the existing hierarchy will then attack any other 'Cows' who point out the violence, hypocrisy and immorality of Human ownership.

Officers positioned 'Grant' face first on the floor with one officer near his head a second near his back and a third officer standing nearby. There appeared to be a brief struggle, then a 2 year veteran Bart officer stands, draws his weapon "and fires."

Freedom is Slavery and Slavery is Freedom. If you can get the 'Cows' to attack each other, whenever anybody brings up the reality of their situation, then you don't have to spend nearly as much controlling them directly. Those 'Cows' who become dependent upon the stolen largess of the 'Farmer' will violently oppose any questioning of the virtue of human ownership. And the intellectual and artistic classes - always and forever dependent upon the 'Farmers', will say to anyone who demands freedom from ownership "You will harm your fellow Cows".

The 'Livestock' are thus kept enclosed by shifting the moral responsibility for the destructiveness of the violent system to those who demand real freedom. The very third phase is to invent continual external threats so that the frightened Livestock cling to the protection of the Farmers. This system of Human Farming is now nearing its end. The terrible tragedies of modern Western economic systems has occurred, not in spite of, but because of past economic freedoms.

The massive increases in western wealth throughout the 19th Century resulted from economic freedoms and it was this very increase in wealth that fed the size and power of the State. Whenever the Livestock become exponentially more productive you get a corresponding increase in the number of 'Farmers and their dependents. The growth of the state is always proportional to the preceding economic freedoms. Economic freedoms create wealth and the wealth attracts more thieves and political 'parasites' whose greed then destroys the economic freedoms. In other words, freedom metastasizes the cancer of the State.

The Government that starts off the smallest will always end up the largest. This is why there can be no viable and sustainable alternative to a truly free and peaceful society. A society without political rulers, without human ownership, without the violence of taxation and stateism. To be truly free, is both very easy and very hard.

We avoid the horror of our enslavement because it is so painful to see it directly. We dance around the endless violence of our dying system because we fear the attacks of our fellow Livestock. But we can only be kept in the cages we refuse to see.

Wake up. To see the farm is to leave it.

Why I don't Vote

It's simple, I don't vote because I don't consent to have a master over me and I have no right to appoint a master over you. I do not participate in the political process because doing so only legitimizes authoritarian domination and amounts to little more than slaves begging for scraps from their owners. I own myself and I refuse to politely ask liars and thieves for legislative permission to run my own life, my own business and make my own choices. However there is one action I do condone which might at first seem like working within the system when it is actually the opposite.

Voting is often held to be "a sacred duty" or "a right" or even a "moral responsibility". Those in power love to promote elections and voters rights because they know that voting gives legitimacy to what they do once elected. Why else would billions of dollars be devoted to election politics? Politicians desperately plea with citizens to "get out and vote" because they know that elections provide cover for them. Honestly, is going to the polling booth once every two or four years and secretly casting a ballot will miraculously change the course of human history.

The main reason I don't vote, the only one that truly matters is that inevitably my vote is an act of aggression against others. The Declaration of Independence, one of the foundational documents that governs this country states correctly that "...all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness". The key to that phrase is that our rights are unalienable which means non-transferable. I can vote to give away my freedoms but I cannot vote to take away yours. If our rights are unalienable then they cannot be taken away by a voter or group of voters and yet that is the crux of all voting. All voting is about taking something from someone and giving it to another or appointing someone lord and master over others against their will.

Are you starting to see the consequences of your vote?

Voting is an act of violence because each voter assumes the right to appoint political and legal guardians over other human beings. No individual voter or even a majority of voters has such a right morally. If they claim to possess such a right, please have them clearly explain where that right comes from and how it squares with the self-evident truths of the Declaration of Independence "that all men are created equal" and that they are endowed by their Creator with certain obeyed regardless of the morality of those laws.

We wrote an article entitled "Statutes and Ordinances are not and cannot ever be binding law under the Constitution." This was posted in our April 2015 newsletter. It's worth the read when you get the chance.

In the end and after considerable thought I'll never vote regardless of candidates or issues on the ballot. People will ask questions like – "how will we decide who leads us?" The majority has absolute control over the minority using a tyrannical entity called government. "Government is not reason. "Government is force; like fire it is a dangerous servant and a fearful master."

unalienable "Rights" of "Life, Liberty," and Property. When someone slips into a voting booth and pulls the lever they are no different than the highwayman who pulls a pistol out of his pocket and robs you in broad daylight.

Some people say that voting is a key to democracy and necessary to preserve our rights. This is hogwash. History has shown repeatedly that voting does not preserve rights and in fact is used as a tool to take them away. There are countless examples of so called democracy, even representative democracy such as that practiced in America, electing tyrants. It should be noted that Hitler rose to office in a thoroughly democratic process. Moreover, if voting is required to preserve our rights then they aren't unalienable are they? Our rights become conditional, something bestowed by the state. This is a very dangerous proposition, to allow the state the ability to assign rights because what it can give it can surely take away. And it routinely does.

Voting is an act of consent. I do not choose to offer my consent. When you vote you agree to abide by the rules of the game and accept the outcome. By voting, the voter endorses the governmental system under which he or she lives and those in control of it. Each voter is saying: It is right and proper for some people, acting in the name of the State, to pass laws and to use violence to compel obedience to those laws if they are not

The question of who will govern me is moot because I don't care to be governed and neither should you. More than anything, I don't want any votes I cast to be used to exact violence against others. I don't want to be responsible for the debt that politicians accrue which must be paid by future generations including my children and grandchildren. And I don't want to enable politicians to wage endless wars which inevitably murder innocent children and non-combatants. As far as deciding who will lead us, that's none of my business. If someone chooses to give up their sovereignty and be lead then fine. Just don't ask me to participate.

Did you know the developing world now spends $13 on debt repayment for every $1 it receives in grants. The poorest countries have already payed back 102% of their initial debt, and yet they still owe $523 billion in debt due to interest.

Did you know the Internal Revenue Service is not an agency of the United States government. It is true that not only can it NOT be found in Title 31, but it is nowhere to be found in the entirety of Title 5 U.S.C. And that there is no law that requires anyone to File income tax returns, Pay income taxes, or submit to IRS audits.

Did you know that there are NO Judicial courts in America and have not been since 1789. Judges do not enforce Statutes and Codes. Executive Administrators enforce Statutes and Codes. There have NOT been any judges in America since 1789. There have just been administrators.

Did you know It is NOT the duty of the police to protect you. You heard that correctly. The Supreme Court has ruled that the police do not have a constitutional duty to protect a person from harm. They I wonder why they are cops?
